Consulting resource professionals are self-employed professionals (B.S. in forestry, wildlife, or resource management) whose business involves managing non-industrial private forestlands for a fee. Thus, the consultant works for the landowner. Fees may be negotiable and are based on hourly rates, per unit rates, or a commission of timber sale proceeds. Provided to you by: Dickinson Conservation District. The Conservation Districts do not endorse any consultant over another. You are advised to check references when hiring any type of contractor.
